Course Description:

Most offenders serve their sentences in the community, and even those who are incarcerated eventually return to the community, often on a form of probation. Major emphasis will be placed on the components of probation, the offenders involved and the significance of intermediate punishments or sanctions to probation and the criminal justice system. An example is when to file a Violation of Probation, the possible alternatives before reaching this stage. Among the lecture topics to be discussed are Adult Supervision Unit, Juvenile Supervision, Criminal and Child support; in addition specialized case loads will be a focus, Drug Court, Domestic Violence, and Sex offenders. Also, emphasis will be placed on the styles of supervision, goals and objectives of probation, the management of officers, current issues, and challenges and trends.

Course Objectives:

The overall goal of this course is to provide the student with the expertise he or she needs to critically analyze the issues, challenges and trends as they exist in Probation today. After successful completion of the course, the student should:

(A) be able to clearly distinguish each division within probation

(B) be able to significantly appreciate the value of intermediate punishments or sanctions as correctional alternatives

(C) have an accurate, detailed, understanding of the management of Probation Officer’s including management approach

(E) understand the impact of current issues, challenges and trends have on probation
Final Assessment of Grades will be as follows:

Mid-Term Paper 30%

Final Examination 40%

Class Participation 30%

Class Participation is weighted in this course because discussions aid in the student’s ability to understand the impact of probation in our society. Also, an interactive approach aids in the student’s learning and creates an environment where an exchange of ideas is valued.

Missing any more than 3 classes will result in dropping a grade level.

Included in the class participation grade is an oral presentation of one chapter from the textbook. You will be assigned a specific chapter to present to the class. The oral presentation needs to be accompanied by a typed hand-out, which provides an in-depth review of the chapter’s major themes and content. This outline will enhance your presentation and be part of your grade.

For your mid-term research paper, you will select a current challenge or trend in community supervision release. Your paper should include an introduction/history of the challenge or trend, its current and future implications, and your opinion about the challenge or trend. Further discussion of the mid-term paper will occur later in the semester.
