COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course focuses on the examination of sex offender specific research. Issues concerning etiology, treatment, management and recidivism will be discussed. Strategies for reform will be explored, as well as the evolving initiatives and legislation concerning sexual violence. The class will be carried out with an equal division of lecturing AND discussion. Students must therefore be prepared and willing to speak in each class; grades will be issued accordingly. Late assignments are not accepted unless otherwise arranged with the instructor. The subject matter we often deal with is sensitive/controversial, however the material is not difficult to comprehend or digest. Because of this, active participation and adherence to the topic and reading schedule is imperative.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the completion of this course, students are responsible for:

- 1) An increased knowledge in the areas of sex offender reform, management and recidivism.
- 2) An increased understanding of the current initiatives in sexual legislation, and the constitutionality of such trends.

REQUIRED READING

- 1) Preventing Sexual Violence: How Society Should Cope with Sex Offenders by John Q. LaFond, American Psychological Association, 2005.

The book is required and is available at the campus bookstore. Additionally, it can be purchased on the bookstore web site and through the American Psychological Association web site.

Throughout the course you will also be required to read numerous journal articles, for which you will be responsible. Most will be provided to you, others you will be expected to retrieve from the Rutgers library. This will be mandatory and if I believe students are not retrieving the articles, there will be quizzes on the material.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- 1) Attendance & Participation

Participation and attendance are required and mandatory since this is a hybrid class. An absence will only be excused with the proper documentation and participation will be assessed after each class. Roll will be taken during each class since there are only 6 class meetings. You are expected to have the material read for the respective class. Failing to provide sufficient answers to posed questions will result in a score of zero for that day's participation. Students are expected to fully participate in the lectures and will be called on regularly. Exams will ONLY be rescheduled for an emergency and ONLY with appropriate documentation.

2) Reading Material

Readings are assigned for every week. The Tuesday class will then cover the material for the full week (since we don't meet on Thursdays like non-hybrid courses do). If participation and feedback on readings suffers, pop quizzes will be given sporadically.

3) Final Exam and Midterm Exam

The exam format will be determined based on the size of the class. The final exam is not cumulative.
